

Butterflies!

This story will tell me what I will see when I visit Butterflies!

I will stay with my friends and not run ahead.

I am going to the Butterflies! exhibit at Brookfield Zoo.

I may need to wait in line to get a ticket. There may be other people in line, and I will be patient.

I will give my ticket to the person in the green shirt, and he or she will scan it.
Then I will wait my turn to go inside the exhibit.

A zoo person in a green shirt will tell us the rules before we go in to Butterflies!
Then I can go inside.

I will walk when I am inside the exhibit.

I may be excited to see the butterflies. I will follow the rules. I will not scream and I will not walk in front of other people.

A butterfly might land on me, and that is okay. Butterflies will not hurt me and it might tickle a little.

I can look at the butterflies, but I should not touch them.

When it is time to leave Butterflies! we will walk to the exit. I will need to look at myself in a mirror to make sure no butterflies have landed on me before I leave. As long as there are no butterflies on me, I can leave the exhibit.

Once I leave the exhibit, I can tell the person I am with which other animals I want to see at Brookfield Zoo.
